3

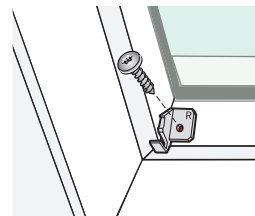

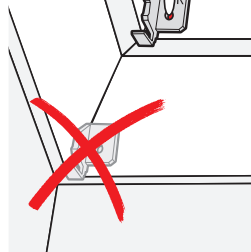

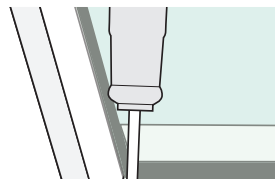

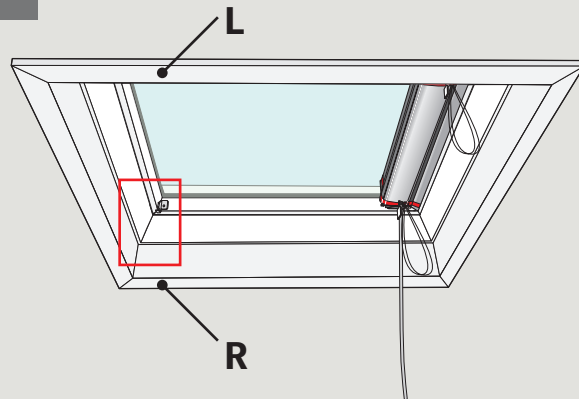

A perspective view of a skylight installation. A red rectangle highlights the bottom right corner of the skylight frame, where a small circular drain hole is located. This hole is the exit point for water that has entered the skylight.
